Joan Linder

New York, USA

Artist's statement:

"In a culture hyper-saturated by electronic imagery I use the traditional materials of a quill pen and a bottle of ink to create large-scale images that persist in exploring and claiming the sub-technical process of observation and mark-making. In my recent work I am creating life size representation of figures and objects. There is a vital relationship between the observer and the observed in a scale of one to one. The sleight or sloppiness of hand creates and awkward and intimate surface which is compounded by the definitive and energized process of cross hatching. My subjects include the banality of mass produced domestic artifacts, the politics of war, sexual identity and power, and the beauty disclosed in the close scrutiny of natural and man-made structures. The diversity of subject matter is a critical element in my attempt to express the complexity and variety of contemporary life."

Biography

Linder was born and bred in suburban New York. She lives and works in Brooklyn and Buffalo, NY.

Henrietta Stuart

London, UK

Artist Statement

"I paint abstracts in oil on canvas, based on 'things seen': formerly still life, now mostly landscape, in which I aim to evoke time and place, using colour and light. I paint in thin layers, laying paint over paint to exploit its transparency, a technique of which Turner and Titian were both masters. My formative influences included Giorgio Morandi, Paul Cézanne, Georges Braque, Mark Rothko, Robert Motherwell, and Clyfford Still. Morandi is remembered for pointing out that "There is nothing more abstract than the visible world". I in my own way set out to make abstract compositions out of things I have seen, and been moved by: "A world observed and translated - a world created from the natural and the man-made: 'still life' a still life both drawn and felt, as one would admire and caress a well-loved jug, or wonder at the light on the water of the Thames on a calm spring morning" - was how I put it myself some years ago, and it still holds true."

Biography

Born London, UK, and received her education and a BA with Honours (first class) in Fine Art, at the University of Newcastle upon Tyne in 1989. Henrietta lived, worked and travelled in Europe and the south of France and England during the early years of her career, and is now based in London, UK.

The process

My paintings have developed over the years from abstracts based on still life to compositions woven from images taken from the natural world. My inspiration as always is from places and images that I have seen. The compositions are worked up from extensive drawing, both of the landscape and of still life groups set up in the studio. The finished pieces range from almost totally abstract compositions evoking a sense of place to more easily recognisable landscape images: natural world modulated by time and season, disclosed by visual texture and colour. Colour and light play the most important parts in my work. Colour is used to evoke emotion, and gives a sense of time and place; light is used to create space and to mask and hide objects, creating a sense of mystery.

Places

I returned to the UK in 2011 and my work has since been influenced by the English landscape. The muted colours surrounding the Thames, the waterlogged skies and the vivid blasts of light that break through the cloud layers. I am looking forward to continuing with my focus on this much softer British light.

Robbie Karmel

Artist's Statement

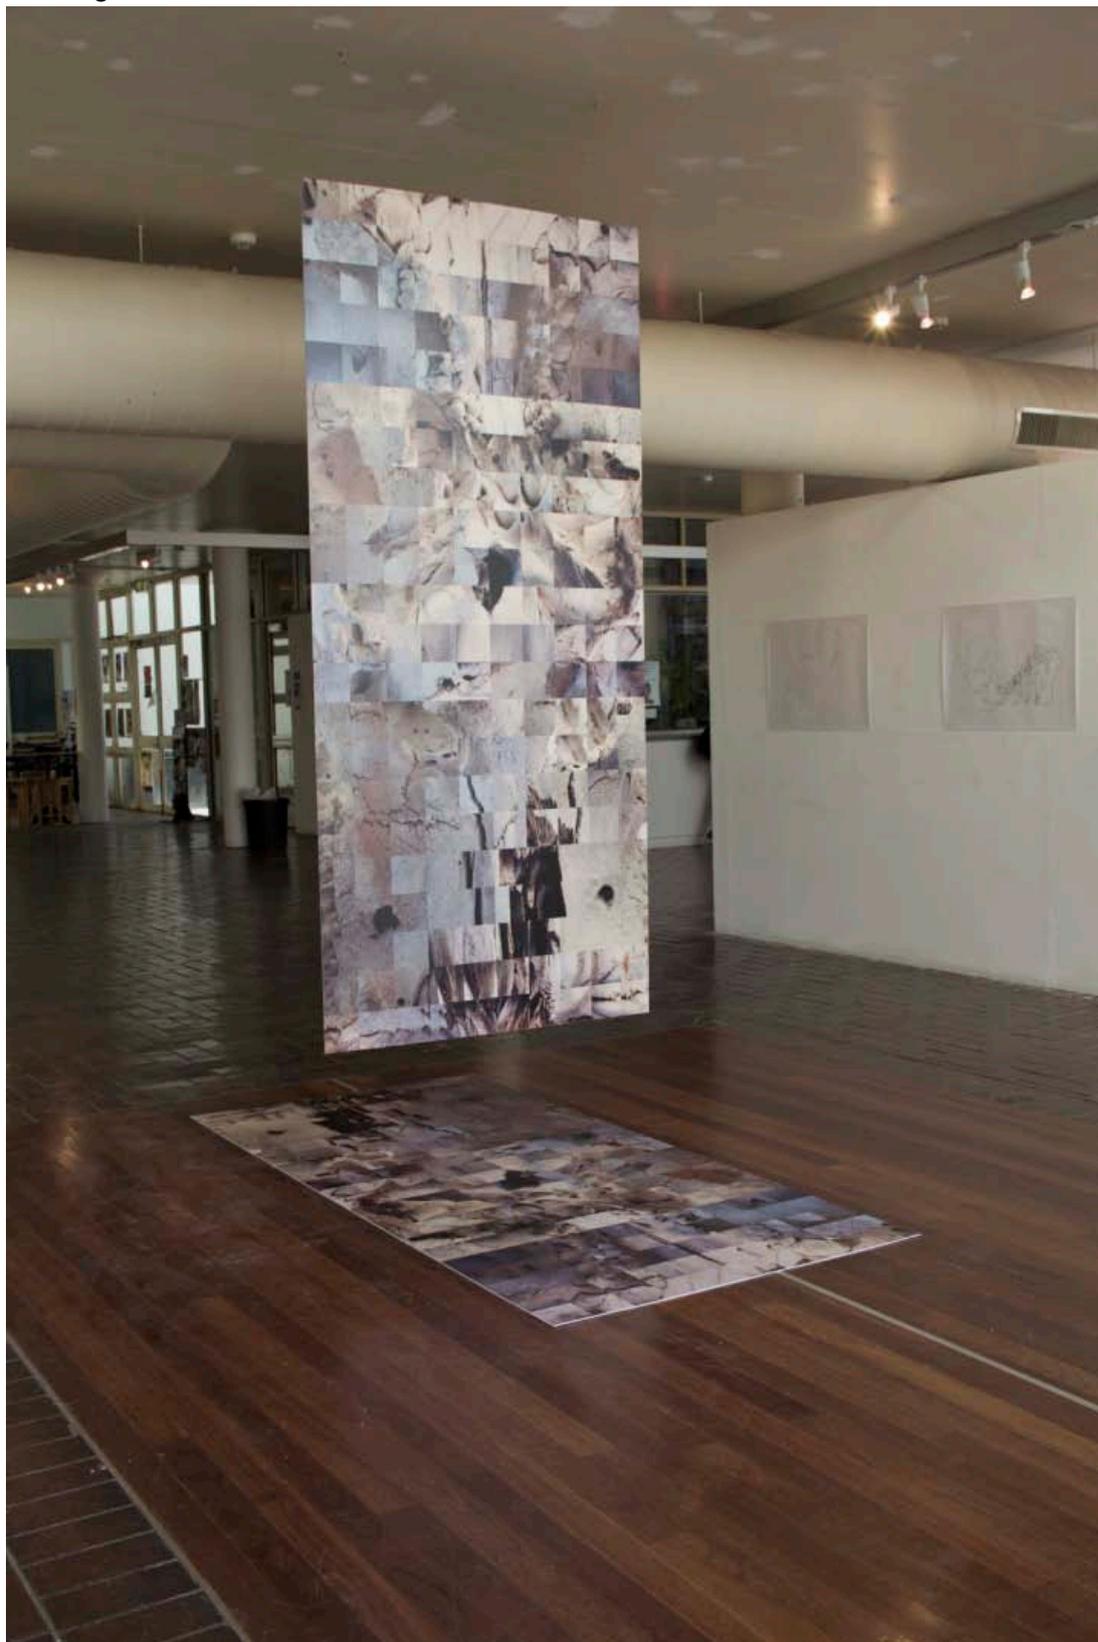

Robbie Karmel works in the field of drawing, installation, video work, sculpture and printmaking, and is interested in the act of mark-making through these media. He also writes and blogs about his projects and is interested in participatory artworks that involve audience members and the ideas in the field of 'haptics'- observing from an artistic viewpoint the different ways that humans physically interact and touch one another in day-to-day life. He has held several solo exhibitions in Canberra and Melbourne and been involved in numerous group exhibitions, completed a residency at Megalo Print Studios under the Emerging Artist Support Scheme, won First Prize at the M16 Drawing Prize, and was selected as a finalist in the National Portrait Gallery's National Youth Self Portrait Prize. He is currently completing his Masters of Fine Art by Research at the College of Fine Art, Sydney. In 2012 Karmel spent four months in Perth to undertake a residency at the Perth Institute of Contemporary Arts (PICA).

More information about his practise can be found on his website: <http://rkarmel.com/>
