

Pub 'open in six months'

THE redeveloped Mullaloo Tavern "will be up and running" by February or March next year, says Rennet director Graham Brown.

Rennet, the company that owns the site, is developing a new five-storey project that will include a basement car park, retail and office shops, the redeveloped tavern and penthouse suites.

Mr Brown said there would be minimal delays, despite the City of Joondalup warning builder Tolman Holdings to correct some discrepancies.

"I can not comment too much on the matter because it is with our lawyers but I do not expect construction to be held up and I believe the project will be open to the public on time," he said.

Mr Brown said the basement had been finished and concrete laid on the ground and first floors.

"We have already sold, through David Evans Real Estate, three of our 12 penthouse suites," he said.

"We also have some space to let on the ground floor."
